POLICE BILL TO BE OFFERED IN HOUSE

Requires Second Class Cities to Have Not Less Than 30 Patrolmen.

A LATER DISPATCH.
Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.
Sen. Paducah, Ky.:
Committee on municipalities will report unanimously Monday night's bill requiring thirty policemen in second class cities exclusive of chief, captain and lieutenant. Passage in both houses guaranteed by pledges.
L. P. HEAD.

It is not known what the object of this bill is, but it is said to be mainly to prevent any reduction in the Paducah police force.

It is claimed by the local police commissioners that the appropriation made for the police department this year will necessitate a reduction in either the force or the salaries. The legislative boards have nothing to say about which shall be done and the question has not yet come before the police commissioners.

If the object of the bill is to introduce it, to prevent a reduction of the Paducah police force, however, it will have no effect on the appropriation recently made by the council.

A member of one of the boards said today, when told of the bill: "This will not affect us, so far as the recent appropriation is concerned. We have made the appropriation we deemed necessary for the local police department, and the number of patrolmen may be increased to any number desired so far as we are concerned—but no more than what we have appropriated can be expended in the department this year.

If the police bill was considered at the conference of mayors recently it was studiously kept out of the papers.

It has been reported for the past day or two that an effort to keep the number of patrolmen at the top notch in second-class cities was to be made through the introduction of a bill in the legislature requiring that all police forces in cities of the second class consist of thirty or more patrolmen.

The Sun this morning telegraphed Representative L. P. Head at Frankfort, to know if such a bill was to be introduced today, as reported, and his reply was:

Sen. Paducah, Ky.:
Municipalities committee has such a measure, calling for police department of not less than thirty men, but has not reported.

NORMAN HAPGOOD WAS ACQUITTED

Jury Decides He Did Not Libel Justice Deuel, of Town Topics.

One of the Most Noted Cases on Record Finished Today in New York.

JOKE ON ATTORNEY JEROME

New York, Jan. 26.—The jury in the case of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, charged with libeling Justice Deuel, connected with Town Topics, brought in a verdict of not guilty today.

The last stage of the trial was reached yesterday when the taking of testimony was ended and Edward H. Shepard, of counsel for the accused editor made the opening argument for the defense.

Several witnesses were examined yesterday. The striking feature of the testimony was given by Mr. Hapgood himself, when he took the stand in his own behalf and declared that which he written about Town Topics was based upon information furnished to him by District Attorney Jerome himself.

Robert J. Collier, manager and publisher of Collier's Weekly, was the first witness. To Mr. Shepard he said:

"In October, 1904, a copy of Town Topics was delivered at my house, and I saw in it an article referring to Miss Alice Roosevelt, only by her first name. When I went down to the office I called Hapgood's attention to that article and told him I thought it the vilest article ever printed in any news paper, and suggested he write something about it. He did so, an editorial headed 'The Most Degraded Paper in the United States.'

"Hapgood, in his article, however, did not name the paper, but when I read the proof I wrote in the name Town Topics, telling Hapgood at the same time that my action would doubtless involve us in personal abuse."

41 OUT OF 47

The examination of papers announced that 41 out of 47 pupils of the A division, 8th grade, successfully passed and will be members of the 9th grade at the beginning of second term Monday.

This is a very good percentage to pass. The teachers are still working on papers in the lower grades and will complete the work today or tomorrow morning.

NUMBER OF VICTIMS PLACED AT 118 NOW

Not a Woman or Child Escaped --Women Couldn't Leave.

Preferred Ship to Life Rafts—The Captain Went Down Without Trying to Save Himself.

THIRTY-SEVEN MEN WERE SAVED

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 26.—As far as learned this morning 118 persons lost their lives in the wreck of the steamer Valencia.

Thirty-seven men were saved, but not a woman or child escaped.

News of the finding of three more survivors on Turtle Island arrived here last night. These men drifted ashore on a raft.

Survivors Arrive at Seattle.

Seattle, Jan. 26.—The steamer Topeka, bringing twenty-three survivors of the wrecked steamer Valencia arrived this morning.

The survivors of the steamship Valencia picked up from a life raft by the steamer City of Topeka are of the opinion Captain Johnson, master of the Valencia, made no efforts to save his own life, even when a chance presented. According to their story, Johnson was heartbroken over the great loss of life attending the loss of the Valencia. With tense drawn face, Johnson clinging to the rigging with passengers thought only of those with him and time and again prayed for assistance.

"My God, send relief to my passengers," Johnson was heard to say just before the life rafts left the steamer.

Passengers and crew during the night prior to the departure of the life rafts, according to those saved, begged Johnson to place a life belt about his waist. This he persistently refused to do. In spite of the fact that those near him begged him to think of his family and friends, Johnson would not do a single thing to help his condition. According to the survivors thirty survivors left the wreck Wednesday morning on two life rafts and one boat. Captain Gibbs, who went from Seattle to the scene of the wreck on the steamer City of Topeka, returned here on the steamship Texan, which passed in through the cape last night. Gibbs said: "The Topeka steamed to about a quarter of a mile of the Valencia. Owing to the heavy sea it was not deemed wise to proceed further.

We spoke to the steamer Queen, he said, and were informed that about 9 o'clock there were estimated to be about sixty persons clinging to the rigging of the Valencia. The Topeka cruised about the entrance of the straits in hope of finding survivors. At 12:20 we picked up the rafts. The condition of the survivors was deplorable. All were so numb that they could not stand and had to be hauled aboard the Topeka in arms of the crew. The survivors informed me the Valencia officers did all they could to impress upon their minds the fact that there would be little chance for help after the last boats had gone. Still the women refused to take the life raft and as a consequence the men took their places. This was one of the first questions I asked those on the raft when they came aboard the Topeka. All stated the best of order prevailed and the men showed courtesy to the women. When the time came for the lifeboats to leave the Valencia yesterday the officers ordered the women to take to the rafts. The survivors state that in spite of the fact that the Valencia was beginning to break up, the women refused to go on the life rafts and on lifeboats stating they would take their chances with the ship rather than leave. The officers did all they could to impress upon their minds the fact that there was but little chance for help after the last boats had gone.

A survivor says men, women and children singing "Nearer, My God to Thee," shivered and clung together on the hurricane deck of the Valencia when the steamer Queen howled in sight. Women on the ill-fated vessel took off their undershirts and saturating them with kerosene burned them as signals to attract passing vessels but all in vain.

GLAD HAND GIVEN KENTUCKY BUNCH

They Called On President Roosevelt Yesterday.

He Received Greetings From Gov. Beckham, and Sent Back His Compliments.

HARRY TANDY IN THE CROWD.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Nine Kentucky politicians, preceded by Chief Hump and Chief Iron Lightning, of the Sioux Nation, marched into the President's private office yesterday to pay a social visit. The Kentuckians were Representatives Rhinock, James and Trimble, Adjt.-Gen. Percy Haly, Judge John M. Lassing, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction Harry G. Tandy, Col. Joel Henry, of Hopkinsville, and John D. Wakefield, of the Louisville board of public safety. The Indians had been in Washington to see about some Sioux claims.

"Hello Hump," said the President, jovially, clasping the old Indian hand. "I have met you before."

"Hump," famous as a United States army scout in the Sioux war, and called by Gen. Miles "the most fearless soldier in America," grunted and looked dignified and unmoved as a cigar sign.

"Say to the President," said Iron Lightning, after an exchange of compliments through an interpreter, "that we will go home with glad hearts because we have shaken the hand of the President and he has sent a greeting to our people."

"And that's just what you fellows will do," said South Trimble to the other Kentuckians.

Mr. James introduced the visitors. "Gov. Beckham sent his regards to you, Mr. President," said Gen. Haly, as he grasped the President's hand. "Convey my warmest expression of regards to your young Governor, Mr. Adjutant General," said the President. "By the way do you Kentuckians know my dear friend, Roger Williams, of Lexington?" asked the President.

"Col. Williams came to see me yesterday and gave me one of his delightful books on hunting."

"And," said Col. Henry, "he left Washington proud of having delivered a Cabinet meeting twenty minutes to give you his book."

"Really I should have preferred putting off the meeting entirely to spend the morning talking fox hunting to Col. Williams," said the President.

"Mr. Wakefield, delighted to see you, I met you last winter," said the President, when Mr. Wakefield's turn to shake came.

GEN. JOE WHEELER DIES IN BROOKLYN

Greatly Loved Confederate Officer Died at 5:35 p. m.

Was Aware That Death Approached and the End Was Peaceful and Painless.

THE FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

New York, Jan. 26.—General Joseph Wheeler, the famous Confederate cavalry leader and a brigadier general in the United States army since the war with Spain, died at 5:35 yesterday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sterlig Smith of Brooklyn, aged sixty-nine.

It has not yet been decided where the body will be interred, but probably in the Arlington National cemetery near Washington.

Gen. Wheeler was taken ill six days ago. He contracted a cold which developed into pleurisy and pneumonia. From the first his age told against him, but the family did not give up hope until last night, when the disease was found to have affected both lungs.

He seemed to know death was approaching, and though too weak to speak, he succeeded in giving signs of recognition and encouragement to his children. Later the general sank into a peaceful slumber and at the request of the doctors the family then at the bedside quietly withdrew from the sick man's side. The general was never again more than semi-conscious. He lingered and passed away quietly.

The passing of Gen. Joe Wheeler was sad news to the south, where he was loved and honored perhaps more than any other man.

Not only in Alabama, where he claimed citizenship, but all through the south, the people feel that they have lost a noble citizen, a friend, almost a brother. Truly his whole life has been devoted to their cause, both as soldier, statesman and citizen.

Chiefly as a soldier he is known to fame, and few soldiers can show a record more grandly marked by courage, faithfulness and that cool, unerring judgment which comes only to the soldier born, and is never by any chance or acquirement.

He was a soldier in Mexico when little more than a boy in years, and first lieutenant of artillery in the Confederate army April 3, 1861, when he was 25 years old. September 4 he was made colonel of the Nineteenth Alabama Infantry; April '62 he commanded a brigade at Shiloh, and it was here that he received the title of "Fighting Joe," which has clung to him all through his life.

He was at Green River, Mumfordsville and Perryville fighting all the time. October 30 was made brigadier-general. It was he who met Rosecrans' advance upon Murfreesboro and Chattanooga; he was at Chickamauga, at the siege of Knoxville, and at Mission Ridge and Lookout Mountain. He figured in Sherman's march and at Pickett's Mill, the Confederate retreat across the Chattahoochee. He defeated Macon, Augusta and Savannah, and in 1865 was appointed lieutenant-general. April 29th he bade farewell to the army, having commanded in more than 200 battles. Then he turned his attention to the matters of peace, and of serving his people in their new needs.

But he was not destined to lay down his arms yet, and while he was representing them in congress, there came another call for help and in 1898 he was found again fighting the Spaniards, doing valiant work in Cuba. Gen. Shafter recognized his ability, as he was compelled to do. Valor such as his compels recognition everywhere.

New York, Jan. 26.—Joseph Asher, who recently arrived from Russia, committed suicide this morning by swallowing a liniment which contained a large quantity of ammonia. A letter telling of the slaughter of many of his friends and relatives in his home town in Russia is believed to be the cause.

ANNEXATION BILL PASSED THE HOUSE

It is Intended for Other Second Class Cities.

Amendments Offered to It Defeated —Bill For Policemen On Trains.

BILL FOR SHILOH MONUMENT.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—The house today passed by a vote of 73 to 11 the Blair bill for the annexation of outlying territory by second-class cities.

It requires only a two-fifths vote of the persons in the territory or suburbs to be annexed.

Mr. Simmons offered sundry amendments with a hope of delaying or killing the bill, but the house promptly defeated all of them.

Policemen on Trains.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—The railroad committee of the upper branch has determined to report favorably to it the measure of Senator Shadon providing for the appointment of railroad policemen for the several railroad corporations for service upon their trains when necessary. The policemen are to be appointed by the governor upon designation by the company desiring such officers, and the corporation is to bear the expense in connection with the appointment and service. The committee amended the bill in but one particular, that to the effect that the policemen appointed shall have authority to make arrests and serve papers in connection therewith only upon railroad trains and in cases growing out of such arrests. In other words, that they shall not serve any paper which the law now provides shall be served by another officer.

Senator Shadon says such legislation is badly needed for the eastern section of the state, where there is much of liquor drinking and bolsterousness on passenger trains. The railroad companies are not unfavorable to the measure, for it is not compulsory upon them to appoint such policemen unless they deem them necessary for the safe conduct of passengers between certain points.

Shiloh Monument Bill.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—At a joint meeting of the committees on public monuments and appropriations of the two houses, held in the parlors of the Capital hotel, a delegation of Daughters of Confederacy urged the adoption of the measure appropriating $25,000 for the purpose of erecting a battle monument on the field of Shiloh. A delegation from Louisville before the committee was composed of Mesdames T. L. Burnett, Basil Duke, H. W. Bruce, Thos. D. Osborne, Frank Dixon, Andrew Broadbuss, A. M. Sea, L. E. Williams and John Woodbury. Mrs. O. P. Eldred and Mrs. G. L. Beeler, of Princeton, were here for the same purpose.

JOKE ON THE SPEAKER.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—Mr. McLaughlin, of Mason, in a written resolution, on the return of Speaker Lawrence from his home, called for an explanation as to the hanging of a negro at Cadiz while he was there. The resolution caused a laugh, and Speaker Lawrence designated the gentleman from Mason to investigate as to the connection between his visit home and the lynching.

PRIVATE CONTRACT TO LIGHT STREETS

Is Being Considered by Local Light Committees.

A Proposition Made by the Street Car Company Will Be Fully Deliberated On.

IT MAY BE A CHEAPER PLAN.

The members of the joint light committee of the general council are meeting this afternoon to consider a proposition from the street car company to light the city.

What price the company will make is not known, but it is said prices will be made on a minimum of 200 lights. The present number is 160 city lights, and the company, it is understood is willing to contract to light the city for ten years, with the privilege of a renewal at the same price, or less. The price of the lights, too, will be reduced as the number of lights is increased.

What recommendations the committee will make to the council and board of aldermen of course, is problematical.

"It depends entirely on the offer of the street car company," said a member of one of the boards today. "We certainly shall not make a contract at a figure more than at which the city can light the streets itself,—we are looking for the best of the contract, and will get it. It is purely a matter of business and economy, with us. If the offer made us seems fair and will prove a source of economy to the city we mean to give it every consideration, study, and investigation. It is the opinion of most of the council that something might be done in the premises."

The city's past management of the light plant has always been the subject of much comment, and it is at present a matter that is receiving much attention from the council members. An appropriation of $185,000 to put it in good condition and to make the improvements necessary to handle the additional lights the city wants this year was made in the appropriation ordinance passed a few nights since, part of it being in the contingent fund, but if the city can make a better arrangement with the street car company for its lights, it may be done.

"It would astonish a person to make a trip to the light plant and see its condition," was the remark of some one who had been out to the plant since the latest break down. Its present capacity, when in good condition, is 160 lights and complaints are made every day from people who want additional lights and cannot get them.

The plant has "been out of business" a good deal during the past year, and it was largely because the machinery has worn out. Only this week the city was dark one night. It is fully expected that protest will be raised by some people at the mere suggestion that the streets be lighted by contract, but this will not deter members of the two boards from giving the matter their earnest attention.

Many people think the city should add an incandescent plant to the present light plant, and by furnishing lights and power to private consumers come into competition with the present company, and thus pay the expenses of lighting the streets. The cost of such a plant, however, would be in the neighborhood of $50,000 or $75,000 at the least. Owensboro has a plant for furnishing both street and private lights, and it cost $125,000. If the city had such a plant it would no doubt prove a source of profit, but no one has ever yet furnished the money or showed how the city could conveniently raise it, and without the money the plant cannot be put in.

The city plant now costs from $12,000 a year up for the 160 lights we have, and the regular municipal expenses are so great that there is never much chance to get extra money, even to keep the plant in repair, much less to increase its capacity. The service is not satisfactory, and the present question before the boards is whether or not they can get better and more lights for less money by having a private concern furnish them. The city could simply close its own light plant and its lights by contract. It is impossible to say what the result of a private plant would be, however, or how.

Theatrical Notes

"In Old Virginia" will not appear at The Kentucky, where it was booked for week after next. The advance agent, George Schuyler, arrived yesterday and received a message that the company would disband up in Illinois today.

Mary Emerson.

The theater-goers of Paducah contemplate with genuine pleasure the approaching engagement of Mary Emerson, who will appear in a new play "Will O' the Wisp." The production is under the personal direction of Mr. Samuel Lewis, one of the ablest stage directors before the public. Miss Emerson's supporting company, has been selected with the utmost care. The initial performance will occur at The Kentucky on Wednesday matinee and night.

"The Holy City" Again.

For this, the second season of Gordon and Bennett's "The Holy City," every degree of theatrical representation has been made to excel. The allegory, musical, spectacle and thrilling situation so greatly enjoyed last year, the large company of superior talent, its stronger and more brilliantly arrayed, and additional accessories have been provided. Nothing more dramatically complete will be seen this season and it is of pleasant record that last year's success is being surpassed. At The Kentucky tomorrow matinee and night.

Jesse James a Thriller.

The Jewell Kelley Stock company pleased a large audience at The Kentucky last evening, nearly every seat being taken. The attraction was the sensational drama "Jesse James," which never fails to please and always draws well, regardless of the many times it has been produced.

Tonight's performance will conclude their engagement in this city much to the regret of many friends and admirers.

Mr. Kelley has become quite a favorite with Paducah theatre-goers, and should he return to Paducah he will always be given a warm welcome.

The farewell performance will be the rip-roaring farce comedy in four acts, entitled "The Whole Damm Family." The piece is comedy from start to finish and those who wish to enjoy a good hearty laugh should attend the performance tonight.

An entirely new line of specialties will be produced tonight and they alone will be well worth the price of admission.

THE SCHOOL CASES ARE ALL SETTLED

Ed. Morgan Dismissed for Disturbing an Assembly.

E. W. Benton Fined $50 and Costs for Hitting G. W. Tanner With Stick.

ENDS BATCH OF SCHOOL CASES

Police Judge D. L. Sanders today cleared his docket of "school cases," which have been so prominent in his court for the past two weeks, and stated that he hoped he would never be called upon to pass on any cases of this nature again.

The case against J. Edward Morgan, the blacksmith, who assaulted J. S. Ragsdale, principal of the Lee school, last week, charging him with disturbing a public assemblage, was dismissed.

This case had been left open in order that Judge Sanders consult some authorities. He announced this morning that he had concluded Morgan could not be fined for disturbing an assembly after he had been fined for a breach of the peace committed in the same act, and he sustained the plea of former conviction and fine, made by Morgan's attorneys and dismissed the case. Morgan was Saturday fined $50 and costs for a breach of the peace.

E. W. Benton, colored, principal of the Lincoln school, was fined $50 and costs for a breach of the peace.

Judge Sanders further stated that he meant to uphold the recognition laws and if either of the two, who are both recognized in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for one year, is guilty of attacking, provoking an attack or a breach of the peace with the other, he will see that the recognition is forfeited.

"It is just as binding as if I took a cash bond or if I took any reliable residents on the bond," Judge Sanders declared, "and I intend to enforce it."

There were but two other cases on the docket and these were continued until tomorrow.

One is against Ed Taylor, white, a stranger, who got drunk and drove another's horse away.

The other is against Rosa Skelton and Arthur Wade, colored, for a breach of the peace. They had a fight on Broadway between Fifth and Sixth streets yesterday afternoon.

COUNTY DIPLOMAS

To Be Decided By Examinations
Now On.

The examination for applicants for county school diplomas is being held today at the county court house here and at Palestine school house in the county.

The examinations are being conducted at the court house in County Superintendent Billington's office, for his attack made on G. W. Tanner, a former school principal whom Benton succeeded. Tanner, who was charged with flourishing a pistol, was dismissed on the latter charge. Tanner was fined $50 and given ten days in jail yesterday for carrying the pistol concealed. In rendering his decision, Judge Sanders made some rather strong comments on the trouble between the two.

"Tanner seems to be jealous of this man Benton, claiming he (Benton) has alienated his wife's affections," Judge Sanders remarked. "If Tanner's wife has been untrue to him he should have sought redress in the courts; should have secured a divorce and let the matter drop. He seems to be crazy jealous and has been making trouble for Benton in every way. After publishing cards in the press accusing Benton of things unbecoming a school teacher and after Benton had been arraigned before the school board and the matter settled, Tanner returns and renews the difficulty. This was not right, and Tanner went about the matter in the wrong way."

"Take Benton's case. He was probably greatly aggravated by the actions of Tanner to cause trouble, and while in one sense of the word he might have been justified in making an attack on Tanner, he did not have a legal right to do so, and is guilty of a grievous breach of the peace. I do not think the evidence sufficient to hold Benton for malicious assault with intent to kill and will fine him $50 and costs for breach of the peace—the same I fined Tanner for carrying a concealed weapon. In regard to Tanner's flourishing a weapon, I will dismiss the charge, as the pistol was grasped by Benton before Tanner had a chance to flourish it."

Judge Sanders further stated that he meant to uphold the recognition laws and if either of the two, who are both recognized in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for one year, is guilty of attacking, provoking an attack or a breach of the peace with the other, he will see that the recognition is forfeited.

"It is just as binding as if I took a cash bond or if I took any reliable residents on the bond," Judge Sanders declared, "and I intend to enforce it."

"If Tanner's wife has been untrue to him he should have sought redress in the courts; should have secured a divorce and let the matter drop. He seems to be crazy jealous and has been making trouble for Benton in every way. After publishing cards in the press accusing Benton of things unbecoming a school teacher and after Benton had been arraigned before the school board and the matter settled, Tanner returns and renews the difficulty. This was not right, and Tanner went about the matter in the wrong way."

Girl

Toilers

Gain Strength for Work

In office and factory, shop, store or kitchen girls are at work all over this land, and, alas! far beyond their strength. Young women who work are especially liable to female ills. Too often the girl is the bread winner of the family and she must toil unremittingly, no matter if her back does ache, her limbs and abdomen throb with dull pain and dragging sensations, and dizzy spells make her utterly unfit for work. These are the sure signs of female irregularities which kill beauty and youth.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

builds health and strength for all women who work and are weary. It creates the vitality that makes work easy. From the thousands of grateful letters written by working girls to Mrs. Pinkham we quote the following:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell you the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier have done for me. Before I took them I was very nervous, had dull headaches, pains in back, and was very irregular. I had been to several doctors and they did me no good.

Your medicine has made me well and strong. I can do most any kind of work without complaint, and my periods are all right.

I am in better health than I ever was, and I know it is all due to your remedies. I recommend your advice and medicine to all who suffer.

MISS ABBY F. BARROWS, Nelsonville, Athens Co., Ohio.

Oh, if American girls who work would only realize that they have but one life to live, and make the most of their precious health and strength!

Mrs. Pinkham extends to every working girl who is in ill health a cordial invitation to write her for advice. Such letters are always kept strictly confidential, and from her vast experience Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help you—and may save your life.

The examinations at Palestine school house are being conducted by M. V. Miller and the number of applicants is not known. It was expected that quite a number would be on hand to take the examination, and they will continue throughout tomorrow. It may be that others will come in the meantime.

Cured Lumbago.

A. B. Canman, Chicago, writes March 4 1905. "Having been troubled with lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another then different ointments and liniments, gave it up altogether. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers." Entertainment for February.

Lippincott's Magazine for February opens with a novelette by Jeannette Lee called "One Way of Love." This is a clever interpretation of a man's life, and possesses a singularly clinging charm.

Leading the shorter fiction is "In the Strong Man's Borders," by Frank Saville. It is a thrilling romance of the rescue of a girl from a fate worse than death. The story of a plucky newsboy is told by Walt Makee under the title, "The Initiative of Pokes." An amusing satire on "nerves" is that by Adele Marie Shaw, "Katherine and the Sanatorium." The institution described is purely hypothetical, and exaggerated so as to be exoneratingly funny. Ella Middleton Tybout's contribution, "The Methods of Josephine," may be called a vicarious elopement. "Petruchio in Plainville," by Birdsell Jackson, is both humorous and penetrating. An American girl's lively adventure in Paris is entitled "Allie and the Enemy." An amusing little sketch "The Lesser Virtues" is "By One Who Has Abandoned Them."

243 Kentucky Patents in 1905.

For the year 1905 only 243 patents were issued to Kentuckians, according to the commissioner's report, issued yesterday. The state is very short on inventors, being forty-first in the list of forty-five states.

WORSE THAN A CANCER.

A cancer means death. But there are conditions of life worse even than death. Cancerous sores can at least be dressed, and the foul discharges disposed of satisfactorily; but when the mucous membrane becomes inflamed by catarrh there is no opportunity of dressing the parts.

The sufferer, in the first stages, before the sore becomes chronic, can secure a final state of cleanliness by a frequent use of his handkerchief, but the dreadful "dropping down" of the throat finally sets in, and the victim is absolutely helpless.

PORTER'S CA-TARRH-O

Immediately relieves all discharges both outward through the nose, and inward into throat. A single box usually cures, and the throat irritation relieves that dreadful "dropping down." No cocaine, no opiates, no narcotics. CA-TARRH-O simply cures by its antiseptic properties. Price, 50c. (Bottle and pamphlet.)

YOUR BEST OPPORTUNITY

"LOST, yesterday, between sunrise and sunset, two golden hours, each studded with sixty diamond minutes; no reward is offered; they are gone forever."

While the above beautiful quotation applies to time, it is also applicable to your financial loss if you fail to take advantage of Weille's one-fourth off sale. The man who toils either mentally or physically can appreciate the value of time. He can also appreciate the value of money. "Money saved is money made," and so we have inaugurated these fourth-off sales that you may be benefited by the price reduction and we by the clothes reduction—seemingly a fair exchange, but when you take into consideration the time of year and the high quality clothes offered at this price, we are the losers and you the gainer. But we will not dwell on that point. We want to impress upon your mind the importance of buying at this reduction, and buying now. While the winter thus far has been very mild, we may yet have some severe weather. Clothing bought now can be worn well into spring, and then packed away for future use. You can well afford to do that—for a saving of 25 per cent.

Below we have linked a few prices on Suits and Overcoats. You can readily see why it is to your advantage to buy now.

It's after he's been out in the vacant lot, as a real boy, that the difference shows up between really good and cheap clothing. A difference worth paying for, too; but while we sell only boys' good clothes, our prices are not at all high. Our line of boys' Norfolk, Russian and Sailor Suits is bound to arouse your enthusiasm. And with our 25 per cent off rule, which is now in effect, we feel confident of rousing that enthusiasm clear to the "buying point."

Remember, the boys get a chance, too, at our one-fourth-off-sale. Even if the youngster needs nothing at this time, you would find it worth while to visit our Children's Department. It's one of the most complete and comprehensive in the entire south.

People in Mechanicsburg Want Car Line Extended Across Island Creek

A petition is being circulated in Mechanicsburg to be presented to the street car company asking that it extend its tracks over into Mechanicsburg, and is readily getting signers.

When asked today if the company would make the extension, an official of the company said that if the city would go in with them in building a bridge, the extension would be considered at once, but that unless this was done, nothing probably would be done about the extension at the present time.

The legislative board members have not decided definitely what will be done in the matter, as they are awaiting the completion of the city supervisors' work so they can see how much money the city will have for its needs. There is a disposition to do only the work that is of paramount importance, and keep the tax levy down as low as possible.

Marshall County Man Said to Have Disappeared.

HEAD CUT OFF

FINE BULL DOG TIED TO L. C. TRACK IN THE COUNTY.

Train Cut Its Head Off—Object of the Perpetrators Unknown.

The train crew on the evening accommodation train to Cairo, which left here at 7 o'clock last night, report one of the most cruel acts they ever came under their observation in railroad.

Last night as the train was within a mile of Maxon Station, seven miles from Paducah, the engine struck an object on the track. An investigation was made and the object was discovered to be a fine specimen of bull dog. It had been tied to the track to be run over and killed by the train. Whoever tied the canine to the track performed the job in such a way as to insure the dog's head being cut off, his neck being securely bound to the rail with no possible chance to escape.

The animal was a big white bull dog. The body was on the outside of the track and the wheels made a neat job of cutting the head off.

The engineer did not see the dog until he had gotten too close to stop. He at first thought it was a human being, and the crew was greatly relieved to find it was not.

The object in placing the dog on the track is a mystery to the railroad men. It could easily have been killed by a pistol shot and this would have been a much more decent and humane way of putting the canine to death.

The dog was tied to the track beyond a doubt, as part of the rope was still clinging to the canine's neck.

Very often dogs, cows, horses and other animals that are no longer wanted by their owners, are tied to a railroad track to be killed, so a claim for damages may be put in against the railroad. If the object in thus tying the dog to the track last night was anything of this sort, the perpetrators will doubtless be badly disappointed.

Daily Thought.

Lost time is lost eternally.—Max Muller.

INIMICAL LEGISLATION.

It is to be hoped that our legislature will be more considerate of the interests of the state as a whole than it is of the interests of any class of people in the state. It takes a great many kinds of people to make a commonwealth, and often their interests seem to conflict, and in the hands-to-hand encounters that follow between opponents, the law-makers forget all about the masses who are nothing but are often more vitally affected than both the others combined.

Already the Louisville board of trade has held a meeting to protest against legislation that it is claimed will be inimical to the state, and beneficial to a very small part, if any, of the people. The Courier-Journal says:

"It appears several bills have been introduced that seem to menace various commercial interests largely represented in Louisville. Among them is one providing for an additional tax of fifty cents on single stamp barrels of whiskey, and twenty-five cents on packages containing less than a barrel. As there are about fifteen cases of whiskey to a barrel, if this second tax were applied to case packages it would amount to $3.75 per barrel, which is more than the profit on the average barrel of whiskey."

"Another bill provides for a tax on cigarette manufacturers, fixed at so much per thousand cigarettes; as there are at present no factories in Kentucky that makes this particular form of smoking material, it would appear to be a measure intended to prevent any being established. The same bill provides for a burdensome increase on other forms of tobacco manufacture, and seems to be aimed at the American Tobacco company. A third bill that is objected to, requires a tax on corporations of one-twentieth of one per cent on their capital stock. This kind of legislation was tried in Michigan, and had the effect of shutting out a number of concerns that would otherwise have located there."

SPOKE TOO SOON.

The Louisville Herald spoke too soon. When a majority of the legislative committee in a Louisville contest decided that no legal election was held in a certain district in Louisville because of the palpable fraud, the Herald thus felicitated:

"An excellent symptom of Kentucky's early recovery from sheeplike political conditions is the report signed by the majority of the legislative committee in the contest case from the Fifth Representative district of the city of Louisville. Every body here knows that the 'election' held in that district was a riot at other points."

fact, held all, lying that no election took place, is signed by three Democrats and one Republican. The three Democrats are all strong friends of Gov. Beckham and Judge Paynter."

Yesterday when the report of these good men came before the legislature, it developed that all the Democrats were not as willing to exhibit "an excellent symptom of Kentucky's early recovery from sheeplike political conditions" as the three Democratic members of the contest committee, for the legislature turned down the majority report and put the Democrats on record as about as bad as before, giving the seat to the man the committee had decided was not entitled to it.

No, the Democrats are not much better than before. The millennium is not yet here, and Louisville will continue to hold elections that are not elections.

"THE CLANSMAN" IN KENTUCKY

"The Clansman" did not create much of a furor until it got up to Lexington, Ky. There it aroused so much feeling that a bill was the next day introduced in the legislature to prevent the presentation of such plays in the future. The Lexington Herald quotes the following as some of the expressions heard:

"If 'The Clansman' had been produced thirty years ago there would have been another war."

"Splendid inspiration for a lynching party."

"When the play is produced in the south somebody in the audience is going to take a shot at that man playing the lieutenant governor. He plays the part too well for safety."

After the presentation a prominent club passed the following:

"Resolved, that the department of current events of the Woman's club of Central Kentucky deeply deplore the presentation of 'The Clansman' and all such plays which arouse sectional feelings."

Judge Bunk Gardner, of the Mayfield police court, is a judge who has the courage of his convictions. He knows the higher courts only in a small way, and none of them cut any ice with him. He has decided that orders for whisky cannot be taken by traveling salesmen in Mayfield, and the Monitor explains how he feels about it, as follows: "He said " that while he knew that the higher courts of the country had held differently on this question in the past, and while he felt like and knew that the judges of these tribunals were able men with opinions entitled to much respect, that after examining the law carefully he could but conclude that to take orders for liquor in a local option community and make contracts for the sale of whisky in retail quantities, even though the principal's place of business was not in Mayfield, was as much in violation of the local option law as the ordinary method of straight booting."

The Frankfort State Journal speaks a good word for our fellow townsman, Col. Edward O. Leigh, as follows, and doubtless it will be heartily indorsed all over the state: "If there is any man in the state service that is entitled to a raise in salary that man is Edward O. Leigh, the governor's private secretary. He does more for less pay than any man in Kentucky, and does it in such a way as puts everybody in good humor who has business in the executive office. He is an absolute essential to the service and the state should not be niggardly with him. The legislators will do a creditable act by passing the bill for his benefit."

Says the Frankfort State Journal: "Two handsome courtesies extended the Kentucky Press Association were overlooked by the reporter. Each editor was presented with a sample bottle of Old Hermitage whiskey by W. A. Gaines & Co. and Manager J. W. Sallee, of the Street Railway company, put his cars at the service of the members." We trust that the former did not necessitate the latter.

"Scotty," the eccentric miner of Death Valley, is not yet deceased. His latest stunt was to buy up a lot of fire arms, to use, no doubt, on imaginary people who are after his imaginary mine. "Scotty" is certainly building up a structure of notoriety that is going to cost some enterprising vaudeville manager a pretty penny before long.

"Not," said the gossip, "the divorce case of Mr. and Mrs. Swellman has not been finally decided yet. There's some hitch in the proceedings."

"Yes," replied Cuttler. "I suppose it's over the question as to who is to have the custody of the pug dog."—Catholic Standard.

THE CEREAL PLANT WILL START SOON

Final Details for Organizing "Old Kentucky Cereal Co."

The Factory Will Be in the Old McKinney Veneer Mill On the South Side.

OTHER CONCERNS LOCATE HERE

Final details have been arranged for the organization of The Old Kentucky Cereal Co., a company that promises to mean big things for Paducah and the farmers of this vicinity.

The company will manufacture malt flake and grits, used in the making of beer, and the by-products will be hominy, kiln-dried meal and feed stuff. The plant will have a capacity of 2,000 bushels of corn, wheat and rice a day, and should boom Paducah as a market for such products, as it is the intention of the company to buy just as much of the corn and wheat in West Kentucky and the country tributary to Paducah as possible, which will be a stimulus to the farmers.

The company already has promises for almost enough business to consume the entire capacity of the mill, and expects no difficulty in marketing all it can make. The malt flake will be sold to brewers, the hominy and meal to the large markets, and the feed stuffs to the dealers.

The plant will be located in the McKinney Veneer and Package Co. sawmill, on Island creek. F. J. McKinney, of Pittsburg, and A. J. Decker of this company, with Pittsburg capitalists, will be interested in the plant, and Mr. Decker will have charge of the office.

J. J. Shephard, of Pittsburg, is the organizer of the company and will have charge of the manufacturing end of the business. He is an expert mill man and has a patent process which will be used in manufacturing the different products. With his family he will make Paducah his home.

Work on the plant will start in a few days, and it will employ 40 men at first. In six months this will, probably be increased to 100. Local capitalists subscribed to $25,000 of the bonds of the company and the issue has been taken except about $600. The Commercial club has been working on the proposition for some time, and deserves a good deal of credit for its location.

The officers and directors, except as given above, have not been decided upon, but the details of organization will be arranged in a few days.

The saw mill now located in the McKinney plant will be removed to a point farther up the river.

Soap Factory Landed.

L. Hayden, of Hopkinsville, who has been in the city to interest local parties in the organization of a soap manufacturing company, has perfected his arrangements and will decide in a few days on a site. The capital of the company will be $9,000 and the name, the Lusterine Soap and Polish Co.

Cincinnati Cooperation Co.

The Cincinnati Cooperation Co., has removed its headquarters from Ripley, Tenn., to Paducah. Headquarters of the company were located here from 1890 to 1895. Theo. Courcier, and Pete Acker, who were with the company when it was here before, still have charge of the office. The company makes this its headquarters for buying its raw material.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL CAUGHT IN RIVER

Found Floating Near Cairo, But Unidentified.

The Body Had Probably Come From Some Distance Above—Wore Fine Clothes.

A FULL DESCRIPTION OF IT

Cairo Ill., Jan. 26.—The body of an unknown and once beautiful young lady was caught while drifting down the Ohio river at the coal dump yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The corpse, floating face down was first noticed by a watchman on some barges near by and he at once notified Captain George Spence, of the tug Theseus. The captain ordered a negro deckhand to catch the body with a pike pole, but owing to the natural fear most negroes have for the dead it was allowed to pass. The tug was then backed out and the body caught and towed to the bank near the Cairo elevator, where it was taken in charge by the undertaker, Mrs. Feith, and transported to the morgue. The inquest was held yesterday afternoon and a verdict of death by drowning rendered.

The woman's clothes were partly torn off by contact with obstructions and water but those that remained were of the best grade and quality.

She wore a pair of high-heeled lace shoes, size 36-2, number 8323 and bore the trade-mark of Kuhn, Cooper and Greary, Nashville, Tenn. A pleated wool over skirt of dark blue, or grayish blue, blue silk underskirt, a silk corset, black stockings and underwear of the best material completed her apparel. The body was in excellent condition, considering the length of time it has evidently been in the water. She was 5 feet 6 inches in height and appeared to have been a blonde, although the hair was entirely gone from her scalp. She appeared to be under 25 years of age, although nothing definite as to her age could be determined owing to the distortion of her features. No marks of identification were discovered.

It is evident that the body has been in the water for a long while and while nothing definite is known as to the time or place of the accident, the theory is advanced that she was drowned last fall and at some up-river point between Evansville and Elizabethtown.

It is thought by some that she may be the unfortunate "Elizabeth" bride, who was crossing the river in a skiff with her husband and turned over by the waves of a passing steamer. Whoever she is, she appears to be of a first-class family.

Many up-river newspapers have been notified of the discovery in the hope that some clue, as to who the lady is may be discovered.

After some of the best known shipwrecking companies in the country had abandoned the task of attempting to raise the ship, local capital undertook the task, and they have met with unlooked for success. They have adopted a plan of building up the sides of the vessel to a point above the water's edge, and by means of this water-tight bulkhead enable pumps to remove the water from above the deck of the ship, and finally pump out the hull proper. Those in charge of the work believe that the craft will be afloat by another month.

The Cascade, which was sunk near the Point bridge about a week ago, broke from her moorings at Pittsburg on account of the rise in the river and drifted down the Ohio. It crashed into a shantyboat, owned by Albert Graham, causing it to sink. The shantyboat was occupied by Mr. Graham, his two brothers, Harry and James, and a sister, Mrs. William McClesney, and her three children, all of whom had a narrow escape from drowning.

FRANCE WILL WAIT

Until Moroccan Question is Settled, to Take On Castro.

U. S. Gives Consent.

Paris, Jan. 26.—The American government it is stated, has given its consent to Frances plans in Venezuela, but the utmost secrecy is maintained here as to what these plans are.

His Will.

The disgust of a layman with legal phraseology was shown in the will of Elphozo Youngs, filed in Washington yesterday. Mr. Youngs was a dignified, well-to-do gentleman, best known for thirty years as a deacon in one of the largest Congregational churches in Washington. He wrote his will himself, evidently starting out to copy from some book form, which set the example in this wise:

"Being, by the grace of God, in sound mind and body, and mindful of the uncertainty of human life," etc.

Then suddenly on the written page there appears a wild dash of ink and the following:

"Rats! This is too formal. All there is about it is this—at my death I want my ever-faithful and devoted wife, Amelia Loretta L. Youngs, to have and control everything I possess."—New York Times.

"I fear he yielded to the temptation to enrich himself at the expense of the policy-holders."

"That wasn't a temptation," replied the cold-blooded financier. "That was an opportunity."—Washington Star.

Hanged at Jersey City.

OPPOSITION TO LABOR AMENDMENT

Lively Fight Has Developed in the Legislature.

Manufacturers Will Be On One Side and Labor Organizations On the Other.

INSPECTOR MAKES A SPEECH.

The amendment to the child labor bill introduced in the legislature, some of the provisions of which Paducah manufacturers have decided to oppose, will likely develop considerable opposition all over the state. One of the main reasons manufacturers will fight it is that it provides for the state inspector's ordering out any machinery he may deem dangerous or worn out. As no man can be a good judge of the hundreds of different kinds of machines used throughout the state and consequently could not possibly know whether they should be taken out or not, it is not deemed wise to invest any one man with power to order out machinery he may know little or nothing about. Another thing is the opportunity it would afford for graft.

A Frankfort dispatch to yesterday's Courier-Journal says of the proposed amendment:

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—That labor union leaders have marked out a hard fight for themselves was indicated today, when William Young, the assistant labor inspector of the state, made a plea for the amendment to the child labor law which is now being considered by the committee on immigration and labor. The bill seeks to take away from county judges the right to issue permits to children, and gives to the labor inspector the power of arrest. Both amendments.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.

Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until It Is Lost.

Many people suffer from Dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have a good keen appetite, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of Dyspepsia which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right but they are starved, they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome everyday food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicines.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Good digestion means a strong nervous system, abundance of energy, and capacity to enjoy the good things of life.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten, and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a god-send to the army of men and women with weak stomach and indigestion. It justly merits the claim of being the most worthy friend of the time.

It is said by the labor people, are necessary to make the child labor law effective.

"I find the provision allowing county judges to issue permits to children under age most flagrantly abused," said Mr. Young to the committee this afternoon. "In a shoe factory right here in Frankfort I found the judge's permits made out in the factory itself, and sent over to the county judge to be signed. I could do nothing but report the case to the commissioner of labor, who sent letters to all the county judges in the state urging them to use cards in issuing permits. These letters had little effect, because there is no penalty attached and the inspector has no power to enforce his recommendations."

"It has been suggested that the judges in cities of the first and second classes be made exceptions in these cases. I have no objection to this, but I am told it would be class legislation."

"I had a case in Augusta, where the law was openly violated. I found children under age at work, and notified the proprietors to discharge them which they promised to do, or to get permits from the proper authorities. The next time I went back they had permits from the children's parents alone, and the third time I returned they had re-employed the children they had discharged the first time. I called the attention of the commonwealth's attorney to these conditions, and he has asked me for a statement of facts, which he will submit to the next grand jury."

Mr. Young said he had called the attention of manufacturers to dangerous machinery, but they often paid no attention to his recommendations, saying they were relieved of all liability for the death of employees by surety companies. Other manufacturers welcomed suggestions and followed them, and Mr. Young cited an instance in Louisville where, by following a suggestion made by him, the proprietor of the factory was saved from paying damages in a suit for an injury to an employee.

Mr. Young believed that manufacturers would not oppose the bill in principle, but he did believe they would fight it simply because it was a measure advocated by organized labor.

The manufacturers will be given a chance to be heard later. The local manufacturers are soliciting funds with which to send a delegation to Frankfort one day next week to appear against the new child labor bill which will come up before the legislature in a few days.

"This bill means much to Paducah," said a manufacturer today. "If it is passed it will put our local basket and box factories, and knitting mills out of business, and hamper, at present, in an inconceivable way, the business of every plant or concern employing five or more boys or men. It will be the worst graft that has ever inflicted upon any community."

"One feature alone, as an instance of its viciousness, is that creating the office of machinery inspector. Under this law, the inspector can go into any plant and tell the owner he has to throw out any machine that he wishes, whether the machine cost one hundred or one thousand dollars, whether it has been in use two days or a life-time. See the opportunities for graft? Do the machine people want anything better? It will certainly make their business good.

"Under its provisions, children under 14 cannot work in any capacity. Newspapers cannot employ boys under that age as carriers, and telegraph and messenger service companies cannot do so either, and what will these parents whose children are sometimes their only support, do?"

A big delegation of Paducah business men will no doubt go to Frankfort to fight the bill. Delegations from all the Commercial bodies of other Kentucky cities will go too, and a big fight is in store for the measure.

It is understood the labor organizations will, also, send representatives to Frankfort to fight for the bill. Some of the labor organizations have approved of, and are working for, the bill, and the Louisville bodies have a delegation at the capital all of the time in its interest. It is understood.

STOLEN IN MAY

COL. BEN WELLS RECOVERS A FINE BIRD DOG.

Detective T. J. Moore Located the Animal Near Fancy Farm—Taken by Carnival Men.

Detective T. J. Moore returned this morning from Mayfield where he had been on professional business, and brought with him a fine Gordon setter bird dog, which was stolen from Col. Ben Wells last spring, and returned the dog to its rightful owner. The dog was secured by chance, and Col. Wells was very glad to receive the dog again, the canine being a fine breed of bird dog.

Detective Moore had gone to Graves county to secure information in which he was successful. While in Mayfield he learned that Mr. Wells's dog, or a dog answering the description, was located on the Joe Carrieco farm, two miles from Fancy Farm.

"I found the dog all right and brought him back to Col. Wells this morning," Detective Moore stated. "Mr. Carrieco has had the dog since last May and came by it honestly. The dog, as we suspected, was stolen by some attaché of the carnival company which showed here in May. The dog leaped out of a car window while the train was leaving Paducah and Mr. Sam Darnell, a farm hand employed by Mr. Carrieco and a companion, made friends with the dog. They took him to Fancy Farm and gave him to their employer. He had kept the dog since, thinking it was the property of the carnival company."

Col. Wells only yesterday bought another fine Gordon setter and now has a brace of fine hunters.

WANT REDUCTION

Of License for Loan Concerns Doing Business in Paducah.

The joint license committee of the general council held a meeting at the city hall last evening to hear Attorney Ed H. Puryear in behalf of the loan companies of the city, whose license has been increased from $50 to $250 a year, and who ask a reduction.

The committee reached no decision but will put the matter before the legislative boards and let them decide it. Last year for a time the city threatened to put the concerns out of business entirely, and the mayor went to considerable trouble to obtain facts and figures about their operation, but the matter was suddenly dropped and has never been brought up again. The concerns, it is claimed, practically do a pawnbroker's business, and it is alleged charge usurious rates and prey on a class of people least able to afford it.

From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." (Continued From Yesterday.)

"By this time, as you may guess, I was in a deuce of a huff, and off I strode into the wood, whistling to show my indifference. It was silly, no doubt, but I did not want a pack of skuaka like that to imagine I was worrying about them. Just as I had got a dozen yards or so I heard some one come into the forest after me and, turning, caught sight of a man named Demetrius. 'What are you after?' thought I. But I paid no attention and kept on. I kept straight ahead, for the wood was very thick there, and there was no one about. I only wanted to get away for a spell and consider the position. But after a bit I pulled up and took a sent on a patch of heather where the ground was more open. The morning sky shone on the bushes and worked into the corners of the forest, and as I sat there in a meditative way I heard sounds coming nearer, and presently Demetrius popped his head out of a bit of scrubby and glanced at me. I immediately after some one approached upon the other side, and I caught a glimpse of another of the gang poking his ugly pike from behind a tree, and then, again, I found a third to the left. This set me up right awake, and I asked myself what it meant. You can't wonder if I could not make it out. Could you have tumbled to it? Well, I didn't, not just then. But, for all that, it made me angry. I rose and ran at Demetrius with the express idea of 'kicking him; but, retreating, he slipped on a knife and snarled at me like an angry dog, and at the same time his fellows drew up to support him. I had come out without a weapon, and I was at a disadvantage, but by this time it seemed to me to be growing serious, and so I made off back toward the cave. The beggars followed me.

"When I got near the cave—there is a track that runs hard by, whirling somewhere over to the western valleys, but infrequently—I will take a walk here," I said to myself, and accordingly I turned off, but at that motion of mine there was a sort of scrambling among the undergrowth and three of the out-throats barred my path, each showing an ugly knife. 'Very well,' thought I. 'I don't know yet what you're up to, but I'll warrant I'll find out, and meanwhile I'll see that I'm on a little better footing in the matter of arms.' I got back to the cavern, where the two remaining soundbells sat tossing coals, and I went in. My revolver had been removed, and there was not so much as even a pocketknife left to me.

"You will conceive now that I began to be scared. What was the issue of all this? I moved down toward the steps, and two beasts got in my way and grinned at me. I turned back and tried another route, but there I was confronted by two more. I told you that it dawned on me then that it was plain black murder they meant."

Scramble pained again and refreshed himself, casting a glance at us in which I thought I detected a look of fear renewed from his experiences.

"Perhaps you say," he went on in a slow voice, "that I might have cut and run for it. That thought occurred to me, but I put it off. I thought this was a mistake on their part which I could explain. Anyhow, I thought, they're taking no active proceedings. They want to pen me up, that's all, and the morning was waning on, and, to say the truth, I thought I'd argue it out and have some food, but I soon found that, for any arguments I had, I might as well have talked to the wind. To begin with, only two of them understood more than a sailor's English, and of these Stamboules merely grunted by way of reply, while the other paid no heed. What Hood had said to them I don't know. He had pretty well alienated them from me before this—and they were only the acorn of the earth to begin with—but up to now they had proved pacific. I guess he poured some poison into their ears. That dirty Levantine breed is superstitious. Perhaps I was supposed to have the evil eye, but more probably it was filthy greed that was at the bottom of it. Anyhow, I could not come to terms with them, and so I sat in my place, with my back against a ledge of rock, and whistled. 'All right,' I said, 'I'll die on it.'

"It may have been an hour or two later when they prepared a meal for themselves. Up to this it hadn't occurred to me to wonder where my food was coming from. But just as this notion came on me I saw Stamboules, who was the worst of the lot, approaching with a dish in his hand.

"Come, this looks better," said I. 'They're only playing it down on me after all.'

"He came to a halt a yard away and, grinning all over his face, offered me the dish. I was pretty hungry by this time, but there was that in his grin which made me sit up. I fixed my eyes on him.

"You're a nice sort of scoundrel," I said. For answer he grinned wider than ever out of his black mug and, slowly drawing a paper from his pocket, emptied a yellow sort of powder deliberately over the dish.

"I believe I turned white; at least I know I felt it. That notion had never entered my mind. But the vermin set down the dish before me and returned to his companions, who greeted him with laughter. Sickness wasn't the word for what I felt. I kicked the dish away and stood up, a fury yelling in my belly. I was not going to wait. This last straw tickled me into action. I ran down the slope toward this track, but, quick as I was, there were three of the devils after me, and I am not so fleet as I was once. One of them came up with me and jabbed his knife at me. I got him in the head with my fist, and down he went, but before I could recover I got a push in the back, and when I pulled myself up there were two long blades gleaming in my eyes. To go farther would have been to impale myself on a bayonet, and I drew off and backed slowly to the rock again. Here I sat down, and for the first time I was afraid.

"Gentlemen, I will not go through the series, for the time gets on and I've work to do, with your help. But take that for a sample. That was one. Well, you can multiply that by a dozen. I sat at my post till dark, without food, of course, and then in a sort of blind despair of the darkness I gathered some big stones about me. I could use them and break some eggshells if nothing more. And a little after that night fell.

"I tell you, sirs," said Scramble in a husky voice, "I don't want the horrors

"Set down the poisoned dish before me." Of that night—no, not so long as I live. And, what's more, I don't want any man, save one, to pass such a night as that. There were things that crept up my brain that night. I confess to you that I know what D. T. means. I've seen a bit in my life, but to sit still and have that game in one's head till the maggots worm about there, and I got one with a stone; at least, I think so. That was good.

"I saw the dawn rise in a crimson glory. It fell over the cavern and got at the bushes about me. Then it crept on and advanced over the drunken Greeks. Sirs, there they lay, and I never knew till then that hell in my soul and that great fear of death roasting my nerves. I had lived through a carouse. I saw them every minute of the night. They had their orders. I knew that well enough. I can hear Hood at it, with his low and humble voice:

"Let me find him rotten when I come back. I know the man, I say. Yes, I heard his voice every moment of that night—last night, Mr. Grant-orex—and all the while the swine lay drunk or muddled.

"See here, gentlemen, I came in no hour ago. I had had no food for thirty-six hours. I have been hunted like no human being for all that time. I was without a weapon. I had no means to call for aid. I was the subject matter of their knives, as plain as if I was a post mortem. I—"

Scramble's breath fell short, and he gathered it in with a gasp. He lifted the glass to his lips and sucked in the spirit greedily. Then he sneezed more squally:

"You will see that this could not go on, gentlemen. I decided that morning to run upon the knives, if I could do no more. At the first sign of my stirring Stamboules was by me, with his

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins; it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nerve which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

For eighteen years Dr. Miles' Nerve and Anti-Pain Pills have been my close companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn-out—could not sleep; had no appetite; indigestion very bad, and had such a awful dizzy spell. Then I began using Dr. Miles' Nerve, and at once I began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health.

MRS. S. L. YOUNG, 234 Pittsburg St., New Castle, Pa. Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money.

Is Disease a Crime?

Not very long ago, a popular magazine published an editorial article in which the writer asserted, in substance, that all disease should be regarded as criminal. Certain it is that much of the sickness and suffering of mankind is due to the violation of certain of Nature's laws. But to say that all sickness should be regarded as criminal, must appeal to every reasonable individual as radically wrong.

It would be harsh, unsympathetic, cruel, yes criminal, to condemn the poor, weak, over-worked housewife who sinks under the heavy load of household cares and burdens, and suffers from weakness, various displacements of pelvic organs and other derangements peculiar to her sex.

Frequent bearing of children, with its exacting demands upon the system, coupled with the care, worry and labor of rearing a large family, is often the cause of weakness, derangement and debility which, aggravated by the many household cares and the hard, and never-ending work which the mother is called upon to perform, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is one of the greatest obstacles to the cure of this class of maladies is the fact that the poor, over-worked housewife can not get the needed rest from her many household cares and labor to enable her to secure from the use of the "Prescription" its full benefits. It is a matter of frequent experience, he says, in his extensive practice, in these cases, to meet with those in which his treatment fails by reason of the patient's inability to abstain from hard work a few months after the cure. With those suffering from prostrated, antenatal and retroversion of the uterus or other displacements of the womanly organs, it is very necessary that, in addition to taking his "Favorite Prescription" they abstain from all very much, or for a few weeks, their feet. All heavy lifting or straining of any kind should also be avoided. As much outdoor air as possible, with moderate exercise is also very important. Let the patient observe these rules and the "Favorite Prescription" will do the rest.

crease. "All right," I stammered, 'fish me,' for I was as weak as a cat and all a sweat.

"He laughed and went away, shaking another man by the shoulders. "I lived through that day somehow, but it was not so bad as the night—no, not by a long way. All the while I was snarling like a tiger prepared for a spring, and spring I did. Look here,

"In the afternoon—I guess it at 4 o'clock—I started out. They took me to be too weak, I think. The Levantine is as cruel a creature as God made. He loves blood, but I believe if he is educated to know starvation is worse he will choose starvation. Stamboules chose starvation, I take it. I starved. That was a good joke to them as they waited for the end of me and the coming of Hood. They were safe enough perched in that high hollow. But I started out. I ran down and gained the track. Then of a sudden I thought they could catch me in the open track, and I jumped off into the forest.

"They were after me—oh, yes, smart enough, the lot of them, I think—but I sped through the growth like a tough. I was a hare, I tell you. I was upon a cinder track; that was how I felt. I heard nothing and saw little, but presently something clutched me, and on the instant I turned. There was nothing could stop me now. I got him and his neck in my hands, and I pulled and squeezed. I should have knuckled the soul and the life out of him, but I had no weapon. He raised his head, I saw his knife. It got me somewhere."

Scramble raised his coat, and a black stain showed on his shirt.

"But I held on, and I choked harder. Then I heard other voices. I think I was superstitious just then. It ran over me suddenly that the game was up. 'All right, knife me,' I thought, and the black brute did. It struck my shoulder blade, and I dropped my hands off him and lay still."

He ceased. We drew our breaths deeply.

"I knew I was done," he said. "I wanted no bother. I lay quiet. Then I was conscious that he was off me and stood there looking down.

"Presently there were some feet close by my head, and through my half open eyes I saw there was another of 'em, and he was looking down. I didn't care, but I must have gone off about that time, for when I looked up again there was no one there, and I felt stiff and faint and sick in my stomach."

(To Be Continued.)

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L. L. D. Of Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first arising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm which produces a cough and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and it is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons needing a medicine for throat or lung trouble." Sold by Alvey & List.

Mr. J. T. Harahan and Other Officials Were in the President's Distinguished Party.

HAD BEEN IN LOUISVILLE, KY.

President Stuyvesant Fish, of the I. C., who last night spoke before the board of trade in Louisville on "Economy," passed through the city this morning between 6 and 7 o'clock on a special train en route south. He was accompanied by several other officials and remained in Paducah only long enough to change engines.

Pres. Fish traveled in a special car on a special train composed of three cars. The engine, No. 1182, was in charge of Engineer L. Cofer and the train in charge of Conductor John Wheden. Engine No. 1020, was taken here with Engineer Mike Kelley in the cab. Conductor Wheden continued in charge of the train.

Besides Mr. Fish on the train were the following officials: J. T. Harahan, second-vice president, and Maj. Grennell, of New York, a stockholder and director of the road, who is looking over the system; Supt. A. H. Egan and Roadmaster F. L. Thompson, of the Louisville division, and Master Mechanic R. J. Turnbull, of the local I. C. shops. The latter stopped here.

The train arrived in Paducah at 6:50 and left at 7 o'clock for the south with no definite destination. There were several improvements just completed and under course of construction on the southern divisions, and it is presumed Pres. Fish and party will inspect them.

This is the first time Pres. Fish has been through Paducah in many months, and it was not known that he was coming until the train or, he came for the movement of his special. The train made a good run between Paducah and Louisville.

WHISKEY ORDERS

Cannot Be Taken in Mayfield, Says Judge Gardner.

Judge Bunk Gardner of the city court, by giving instructions to a jury in his court to find Lee Adair guilty of selling whiskey by accepting orders for whiskey to be shipped out from Paducah, has thrown a damper on solicitors for out-of-town houses. His decision was that a person soliciting and accepting an order for whiskey to be shipped into a local option town, placed him in the same attitude with the law as a regular boot-legger and therefore he would be compelled to adjudge them guilty.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE.

Boyle County Negro Convicted—Microbe Theory Sustained.

Danville, Ky., Jan. 26.—John Frye, who was charged with malicious assault with intent to kill, was given a life sentence in the Boyle circuit court, this being the third time he has been sentenced to the penitentiary. The offense for which Frye was sent to the penitentiary was committed while he was serving a term in the workhouse. He attempted to escape and Frank Timmony, the keeper of the workhouse, recaptured him. On the way back to the workhouse he grappled with Mr. Timmony and succeeded in taking the officer's revolver away from him and shot at him.

Five years at hard labor in the penitentiary was the verdict of the jury today trying Edward Williams for killing Samuel Landy. Except for the microbe theory which was advanced by the defense, the sentence would have been heavier.

Williams struck Landy with a brick last July, fracturing his skull. Landy dying nine days afterward from lockjaw. The defense showed by expert medical testimony that the injury from the brick would not within itself have caused death and that his death was the direct result of the entrance of the tetanus germ into the fracture, which was made possible probably by the carelessness of Landy in applying tallow to the wound against the advice of his physician, Dr. John D. Jackson. The tallow was analyzed and tetanus and other germs found. There is strong talk of a new trial being asked by the defense.

WARREN & WARREN.

COULTER WINS.

He Was Not Responsible For Clerk Hire.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—The court of appeals, Judge Nunn writing, has affirmed the Jefferson common pleas court in the case of Finley Shuck vs. Gus G. Coulter. The action was by the appellant, a clerk in the auditor's office against Coulter, then auditor, seeking to enforce payment by making the appellee personally liable on his contract by which he agreed to pay him $1,800 per annum as clerk in his office on the ground that Coulter had misappropriated funds of $16,500 per annum for clerk hire. The lower court held that Coulter was not personally liable for his contract, and that he had exhausted the fund set aside for the employment of clerks.

KENTUCKY BOY

Is Given Land in Indian Territory For Being Courteous.

Tom Quinn, formerly of Mayfield, and a son of James M. Quinn, the well known insurance man, is now the possessor of property in Indian Territory and this, from the St. Louis Republic, shows how he came into possession of it:

"The Kentucky courtesy displayed by Tom Quinn and Albert Selby, room clerks at the Planters Hotel, has made them land proprietors of Indian Territory.

"Several weeks ago Captain R. S. Willey of Fort Smith, Ark., was in the city and stopped at the Planters. Every attention was shown to him by the two room clerks, and he was so well pleased with the service that when he went away he promised them that he would remember them.

"Yesterday they received the title deeds to two lots in Aleta, I. T., made out by the Captain. In a nice letter he notified them of the presents, and said he hoped they would make their homes on their own property. Two such polite young men, he said, were sure to succeed in the territory."

WHISKEY ORDERS

Cannot Be Taken in Mayfield, Says Judge Gardner.

Judge Bunk Gardner of the city court, by giving instructions to a jury in his court to find Lee Adair guilty of selling whiskey by accepting orders for whiskey to be shipped out from Paducah, has thrown a damper on solicitors for out-of-town houses. His decision was that a person soliciting and accepting an order for whiskey to be shipped into a local option town, placed him in the same attitude with the law as a regular boot-legger and therefore he would be compelled to adjudge them guilty.

IN THE COURTS

Two Cases Compromised.

Attorneys in the case of Mrs. M. E. Knight against the Paducah Traction Co. yesterday afternoon compromised the case for $250, the defendants paying all costs.

Mrs. Knight claimed to have been injured in a car accident and sued for several thousand dollars. The case was called yesterday afternoon, but before any evidence was gone into a compromise was reached. Attorneys Oliver & Oliver represented the plaintiff.

The case of Gray Woodward, colored, against the Paducah Laundry Co., for $1,000 damages, was compromised in circuit court this morning for $100, the defense to pay all costs.

Woodward was prowling in the rear of the laundry company and fell into an open vat of hot water. He was badly scalded, and instituted suit. Two years ago a white man fell into the same vat before any protection was afforded, and the jury found for the defendant on account of peremptory instructions. Judge Reed holding that it was private property where the vat was located.

Circuit Court.

In the case of J. P. Pierce, administrator of Malcolm Greenleaf, against the Paducah Traction Co., the defendant filed a motion with reasons for a new trial. The defendant got a judgment yesterday for $5,000 for the death of Greenleaf. The plaintiff sues for $50,000. Circuit Judge Wm. Reed caught up with his jury cases on the present docket this morning.

docket this morning.

The case of J. P. Nicholson against the Metropolitan Life Assurance Co., was tried and a verdict of $55 returned. He sues for $99 alleged to be due for services rendered as a sub-agent here.

Sues for Divorce.

Mrs. Addie Merritt has filed suit in circuit court for divorce from L. D. Merritt of South Eighth street. She alleges cruel treatment and alleges that they were married in Christian county December 26, 1876. They have lived here since 1891, and she alleges he has been cruel to her, and that she was forced last Sunday to leave home and seek protection at her son's house. She asks that she be awarded two houses on South Eighth, now in her own name, and attaches a farm in Christian county for costs and maintenance. The couple are parents of Prento Merritt, recently accidentally killed by a companion while hunting.

for costs and maintenance. The couple are parents of Prento Merritt, recently accidentally killed by a companion while hunting.

Laundry Property Sold.

Sheriff John Ogilvie sold property of the Paducah Traction company, this afternoon at the courthouse to satisfy a judgment rendered in court several weeks ago. The stock was sold by the piece and brought more than the debt. At least a dozen different persons bought parts of the property, some taking the engine, some the belts and others machines, etc. The total of the sale has not been figured out.

Beats.

Mike Isman and others to Lizzie L. Studolph, for $750, property near Sixth and Elizabeth streets.

D. B. Salesbury and others to M. E. Rafferty, for $1,500, property near Twelfth and Monroe streets.

Brack Owen and others to William Probst, for $225, property in the Fountain park addition.

A. N. Sears and others to Cliff Sutherland, for $140, property in Tyler.

Two Attachment Suits.

Justice Charles Emery issued two attachments this morning.

One was against H. H. Harris & Co., grocery business at 16th and Trimble streets, attachment on wagon, horse and stock of groceries in favor of W. R. Jones, the butcher, for an alleged debt of $23 for meats furnished. The case will come up at the next court day unless Harris has the case tried sooner.

The second was against A. H. Baker, grocery at 5th and Norton. The debt is for $14 in favor of the P. E. Stutz candy company.

Two Libels Filed Today.

Attorney James Campbell, Sr., this afternoon filed two libels in the federal court.

They are against the towboat Joseph Williams which passed up to Louisville yesterday. One was taken out by Dennis Hunt for $58.33 alleged to be due for seamen services.

The other was taken out by William Cameron for the same service. His claim amounts to $65.83.

Calloway Case Reversed.

Attorney Joseph Grogan has received notice that the court of appeals at Frankfort has decided the suit of Will Harris & Co. against J.

L. Rowlett, of Murray. The appellate court reversed the lower court and ordered a new hearing. Harris & Co. sued Rowlett for $1,975 when Rowlett confessed to judgment for $672. The court ordered sold a certain piece of undivided property. An appeal was taken to the higher court and it has reversed the lower tribunal by saying the entire property could not be sold when only partially owned by the defendant.

To Attend Court as Witness.

Officers Moore Churchhill and Thad Terrell went to Murray this morning to attend the preliminary trial of Charlie Hill, second, mate on the Clyde, for the alleged murder of Henry Hodges, colored, a deck hand on the boat. Churchill goes as a witness, but Officer Thad Terrell as a spectator, being a friend of Hill.
